Description:

Early Territorial Map of Iowa

Fine early Territorial map of Iowa at a very early stage of development, still including a part of southern Minnesota.

This interesting map from the New Universal Atlas, still lacks most of the counties in the western and northern part of the state. The remainder of the state is shaded yellow and is largely unknown and under explored.

One of the earliest obtainable maps of Iowa. Mitchell's pre-1850 maps are becoming increasingly rare and difficult to obtain.

Detailed Condition:

Narrow left margin. Minor toning.
