Description:

Rare set of 3 maps showing various parts of the course of the Ohio River, from the Hockhocking River and the Sandusky River in the West to the Grand Castor and Conasaquining in the East, centered on the Muskinghum River, Indian Villages and Moravian Villages in the region. A second map shows the Sioto and its tributaries and a more general plan of the course of the Grand Castor and tributaries. The map is based in part of the work of Bouquet and Hutchins, each of whom produced seminal maps of the region. The map appeared in the French edition of Crevecoeur's Letters from An American Farmer. Marvelous highly detailed map, among the earliest detailed maps of the region.
