Description:

Striking large format map of San Francisco Bay, extending to Drake Bay, Vallejo, Petaluma Creek, and Oakland, as survey by the British shortly after the discovery of Gold in California.

A remarkable large format chart, with soundings, 4 profile views, and some sailing directions, plus topographical features. British Admiralty charts of the West Coast of America are quite scarce and harbor plans even more so. This is the first example of this map we have seen on the market.

Detailed Condition:

A few tiny wormholes, but generally in near fine condition with wide margins.
