Description:

Scarce map of the Holy Roman Empire, published in Venice in 1564.

The map is derived from a similar map published in 1560 and solely signed by Forlani, which in turn, was influenced by the work of Giacomo Gastaldi, who based his designs on some of his own earlier maps printed from around 1546. The lineage of this map traces back to a four-sheet map of Germany, crafted by the German cartographer Heinrich Zell (c.1518-1564), which was first published circa 1544, most likely in Strasbourg.
