Description:

Attractive original antique map showing the area surrounding the important Dutch port city of Rotterdam. The map centers on the Meuse River, with the city at the time of this map's creation occupying only the north bank of the river. This map originally appeared in Bellin's Le Petit Atlas Maritime.

This map was made for navigational purposes and shows soundings and sandbars in the river. The map also shows the separate town of "Delfs-haven," which has now become a neighborhood of the city known for its older buildings as it was largely spared from WWII destruction.
