Description:

Detailed antique map of northernmost France by the famous French cartographer Nicolaus Sanson, published in 1651. The map is finely detailed, showing the coastline from Dieppe to Dunkirk and extending inland to the D'Artois Region.

The map shows rivers, forests, cities, towns, and other geographical features of note. A decorative baroque cartouche appears in the upper right. Cities shown include Beauvais, Abbeville, Arras, and Lille.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand-color, in outline. Trimmed to neatline laid down on a larger sheet of seventeenth-century laid paper for inclusion in a composite atlas. Minor offsetting and foxing.
