1/1680000, enlarged to the scale of 1/1400000 by the k.k. [Imperial and Royal] Austro-Hungarian General Headquarters Staff Issued in the Year 1837.

The map is a rare and important military map covering nearly the whole of European Russia and parts of neighboring countries, by the distinguished Russian military cartographer Theodor Friedrich Schubert (Russian: Fedor Fedorovich Shubert). Schubert's map was first published in 8 sheets at a scale of 1:1,168,000 in 1829. The present enlarged example is at a much-improved scale compared to the original Russian map, offering a detailed depiction of topography, roads, waterways, military colonies, and old fortifications.

The map covers large parts of Finland in the north (up to about the height of Arkhangelsk), stretches in the west to the line of Stockholm-Krakow, shows the northern and eastern shores of the Black Sea to Tbilisi and Yerevan in the south, and approximately follows the line of Astrakhan-Nizhny Novgorod-Vyatka in the east. Thus, the map includes not only the Scandinavian countries but also large parts of Poland, East Prussia, practically all of Ukraine, Romania, European Russia, the far eastern part of Turkey near Trabzon, Georgia, Armenia, and Kazakhstan.

The following is a list of the map symbols and their German names, alongside their Russian and English equivalents.
