Description:

This hand-colored engraving depicts panoramic views of the cities of Werden and Essen. The top view illustrates Werden, showcasing its abbey and the surrounding hilly landscape with vivid details of buildings, fields, and the Ruhr River. The bottom view portrays Essen, focusing on its prominent churches, city walls, and the adjacent countryside. Both views are highly detailed and offer a glimpse into the architectural and urban layout of these cities during the late 16th century. Decorative cartouches frame the titles of each city view.

Detailed Condition:

Etching and engraving on late-16th-century laid paper. Latin text on verso (1599).
