Description:

Massive wall map of Colorado, published by George Cram.

The map is colored by counties and notes towns, railroads, stations, Indian Reservations, mountain ranges, elevations, and a host of other details. One of the most detailed maps of Colorado published in the early part of the 20th Century, on a Scale of 8 miles to 1 inch.

OCLC locates 2 examples of later editions of the map (North Dakota Historical Society).

Detailed Condition:

Original covers present, but detached. Occasional fold splits mended on verso with a thin layer of archival tissue. Issued with the original title cut off at the top.
