Description:

Scarce 1779 edition of Paolo Santini's highly detailed map of the region centered on the Nile, identifying place names with both ancient and modern names.

The map is based upon the work of Robert De Vaugondy and shows the main trading route from the Red Sea to the Nile, along with excellent detail in the Nile River Valley and Nile Delta. The composition is finished with an elaborate cartouche showing allegorical representations of the Pyramids, the Sphinx, and ancient Egypt.

The map was issued by the Venetian engraver Santini during a time when interest in Egypt and its history was on the rise in Italy and throughout the trend-setting centers of Europe. The fine art engraver Giovanni Battista Piranesi (1720-78) had recently done much to integrate Ancient Egyptian motifs into
