Map of a Portion of San Diego Including Point Loma, Morena, and Pacific Beach...
Copyrighted Feb. 11th 1924

This is a very large and detailed wall map of these neighborhoods, depicting them at 1:400 feet.

One of the most interesting aspects of this map is the additions inside present-day Mission Bay (at its lower-right corner), which show large neighborhoods that were never built. The map depicts the Bay prior to the significant dredging and hydroengineering of the 1940s, which created almost all of the Mission Bay waterfront that one sees today.

The Sellore Addition, Electric Line Addition, and Mission Beach Addition are all either underwater or now part of Fiesta Island.

An outline for Shelter Island is shown off the coast of Point Loma.

Detailed Condition:

Large cyanotype wall map, backed on linen. Toned and dampstained.
