Description:

Striking map of Central America (Costa Rica, Nicaragua and Honduras), the Yucatan and part of Mexico, extending to Panuco and Guadalajara. The map was used to illustrate the Dutch translations of the account of the exploits of Ferdinand Cortes in Spanish America. The cartouche depicts Cortes' reception in the New World and natives mining in the background. Vander Aa was one of the most prolific compilers of information on the early explorations to America, Asia and Africa. In total, the work reached 130 narratives, which were offered in 28 8vo volumes. A finely executed copper plate engraving with decorative cartouche.
