Description:

Gorgeous early Dutch sea-chart of Australia and the East Indies, based in part on Pieter Goos' chart of 1666. The chart is oriented with north to the left of the page and covers the region from the Indian subcontinent to Japan and including much of the coastline of early Australia. Japan is shown on the Blaeu-Martini model. The coastlines of Western Australia are based on early Dutch discoveries and the surveys of Abel Tasman during his two milestone voyages of the early 1640's. The first state of the map, pre-dating the addition of Tasmania present in the Ottens editions. Gorgeous full color example, with wide clean margins. Tooley, Mapping of Australia, page 205, #40, pl. 100; Clancy, The Mapping of Terra Australis, # 6.13.
