Description:

Rare example of Vander Aa's depiction of John Smith's map of the region between Virginia and Long Island. Includes a marvelous depictions of the Chisapeack Bay and Long Island, with many early Indian place names, along with a few early Dutch names on Long Island, plus Fort Ellenburg in the Delaware Bay, Smith's Falls and a few other references to European place names. Vander Aa was one of the great compilers of early voyages. Many of these voyages did not include contemporary maps, making Vander Aa's accounts, the only obtainable graphical representations of the voyage. Gorgeous full color with a striking cartouche. This map rarely appears on the market. A fine example with nice margins.
