Description:

Rare early English map of the region from the Great Lakes to the Arctic Circle. Curiously, no indication of a Northwest Passage is shown. Nice detail in Hudson, Button, James and Baffin Bay. Greenland is shown, as is Iceland. One of the few early English atlas maps to focus on this region. This map appeared in Modern's rare Atlas Terestris, first published in 1687. Minor loss to lower right part of margin and a bit of text, but far from the map image.
