Description:

Reproduction of a fascinating early map of Colorado, pre-dating the counties formed in 1881 (Pitkin & Dolores.) but showing the counties formed in 1877 (Custer, Ouray and Routt). Highly detailed map, showing railroad routes, proposed lines, towns, rivers, mountains, springs, township survey details, and other details. J.A. Blake began issuing directories for Denver in 1875 and was active in Denver from 1875 to 1880. This map appears to have been issued in a book, rather than in pocket map format. A very early separately issued map of Colorado, which we have not previously seen, bearing Blake's name printed in red in the lower right corner.
