A Plan of Paris &c., reduc'd to the same Scale as that of London. In order to ascertain the difference of the Extent of these two Rivals, the Abbe de la Grive Mapp of Paris and J. Rocque's Mapp of London have been divided into equal Squares

Stock#: 1754RB
Map Maker: Rocque

Date: 1754
Place: London
Color: Uncolored
Condition: VG
Size: 28 x 19.5 inches

Price: SOLD

Description:

First edition of Rocque's rare Plan of Paris, prepared on the same scale as Rocque's map of London, in order to offer a physical comparison of the relative sizes of the two cities.

The two plans were advertised in Rocque's 1751 Catalogue and again in his Catalogue of 1761-62. While we have located maps with similar titles (apparently there was a later editions and a map of a similar title done in 1749), this 1754 map is apparently rare. We located only 1 example on OCLC (Ryhiner Collection, Stadt- und Universitätsbibliothek) and one example offered in November 1 by Jonathan Potter.
