Description:

Massive wall map of California, originally issued as a folding map, but now perfectly flattened for use and display.

One of the most detailed maps of California published during the 1st decade of the 20th Century, immediately after the addition of Imperial County, the last of California's counties. The national forests are noted in dashed blue outlines. A nice example of this scarce and highly detailed map.

Detailed Condition:

Flattened and archivally backed. Some minor discoloration and loss along the old folds, but generally a nice example
