Description:

Very rare map of the Northeast coastline of South America, from the mouth of the Orinoco River to the mouth of the Amazon River, centered on Galibis, Sapayes and the Isle de Cayene.

Shows a number of early place names, rivers, and a single cordillera mountain range, running on a straight northwest to southeast pattern, with part of the massive and mythical Lac Parime shown in the lower left corner, with Manoa el Dorado on its western coastline. This is the first time we have had the map in nearly 20 years.

Detailed Condition:

Very wide margins. Some soiling at the out blank margins, far from the printed image.
