Description:

Detailed map of New Mexico and Arizona, showing a number of newly formed counties and transitional borders in both states. The Southern Pacific is shown running from Yuma across Arizona with a line splitting off at Deming and extending to Frontera and Fort Bliss, while the main line continues on to Albuquerque, where it meets the Atlantic & Pacific, which shows a western terminus just beyond Pueblo, although a tentative route to California is shown. Several branches continue on to Colorado. Many towns, counties, camps, forts and other landmarks are shown. There are very few maps of this region issued prior to 1880 in commercial atlases.
