Description:

Extremely rare map of the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix Railway, illustrating its connections to Phoenix, Prescott, Mayer, and Jerome.

The map provides a nice snapshot of the mining boom in Central Arizona at the end of the 19th Century, showing a number of different Gold, Silver & Copper Mining Regions along with many early Arizona boom towns, a number of which have disappeared from modern maps.

The Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix Railway was chartered on May 27, 1891. Construction commenced on

Map of the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix Railway and connections

August 17, 1892, beginning at its connection in Ash Fork, Arizona with the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad. By April 1893, trains were operating between Ash Fork and Prescott. On March 13, 1895 the line ran all the way to Phoenix. On June 30, 1899 the SFP&P began operating the Prescott and Eastern Railroad, which ran between Entro (near Prescott) to Mayer.

The map is very rare. We note only 1 copy (Univeristy of Chicago) and 1 photocopy (Arizona State Library).
