A New Map of the World

Stock#: 33280gm
Map Maker: Moll
Date: 1703 circa
Place: London
Color: Uncolored
Condition: VG
Size: 21 x 12 inches
Price: SOLD

Description:

Interesting double hemisphere map of the World, published in London at the beginning of the 18th Century.

The map shows California as an island, an incomplete coastline for New Zealand (with only Tasman's discoveries), incomplete Australia (again, primarily showing the discoveries known to Tasman), no Southern Hemisphere or Antarctic landmasses, and a blank Northwest Coast of Amreica, above California.

The map lacks the conjecture and embellishments of many of its contemporaries.

Detailed Condition:

Minor soiling and a stray pen mark.
