Description:

A striking example of Waldseemüller's map of Egypt and the Eastern Part of Libya, from the 1513 edition of Waldseemüller's Geographia.

The map extends from the Atlantic to the Arabian Sea. Fine detail along the Nile. Extends south to below the Tropic of Cancer and to the Aharrag Mountains and Azar Mons.

The first modern atlas, prepared by Martin Waldseemüller using the translation of Mathias Ringmann. This is one of the most important editions of Ptolemy, containing many new regional maps. Twenty new maps based on contemporary knowledge were included by Waldseemüller, in addition to the traditional twenty-seven Ptolemaic maps derived from the 1482 Ulm edition.

Martin Waldseemüller and his associate Mathias Ringmann, prepared this edition of Ptolemy, partly at the expense of Duke Rene of Lorraine. It was brought to completion by Jacobus Eszler and Georgius Ubelin. The atlas contains the first map in an atlas entirely devoted to America (Tabula terre nove), often called the "Admiral's map" after Columbus. The map of Lotharingia (the first map of the Duchy of Lorraine), printed in black, red and olive, is one the earliest examples of color-printing. This edition was reprinted in 1520 using the same woodcut blocks.

Detailed Condition:

Minor soiling at lower margin near centerfold and lower left margin. Annotations in an early hand at lower left and right of map.
