

Barry Lawrence Ruderman
Antique Maps Inc.

7407 La Jolla Boulevard
La Jolla, CA 92037

www.raremaps.com

(858) 551-8500
blr@raremaps.com

---

Territorium Archangelopolin inter Petroburgum et Vologdam (Translated from Cyrillic).

Stock#: 36447
Map Maker: Russian Academy of Sciences
Date: 1745
Place: St. Petersburg
Color: Uncolored
Condition: VG
Size: 23 x 20 inches
Price: SOLD

Description:

Fine example of the rare map of the region of Petroburgum, from the Russian Academy of Science's Russischer Atlas: Welcher in einer General-Charte und neunzehn Special-Charten das gesamte Russische Reich . . ., first published in St. Petersburg in 1745.

One of the leading contributors to the atlas was Joseph Nicolas De L'Isle, the younger brother of the French Royal Geographer, Guillaume De L'Isle, who work with the Russian Academy of Science for a number of years.

This exceptional map covers Northwestern Russia including St. Petersburg, Archangel and Vologda. The map is filled with detail of the countryside including roads, canals and many place names.

The first atlas of Russia, published by the Academy of Sciences in St. Petersburg, expanding on the cartographic work done previously by Ivan K. Kirilov. Postnikov notes that the atlas:

...brings together all the geographical discoveries of the early 18th century to give a fuller picture of the entire Empire than shown in the so-called Kirilov atlas. The maps were mostly based on instrumental surveys, geographical descriptions and maps compiled by the Petrine geologists and their successors.

Barry Lawrence Ruderman
Antique Maps Inc.

7407 La Jolla Boulevard
La Jolla, CA 92037

www.raremaps.com

(858) 551-8500
blr@raremaps.com

---

Territorium Archangelopolin inter Petroburgum et Vologdam (Translated from Cyrillic).

Detailed Condition: