Resources, and Settlements . . . (with two early maps of Kansas & Nebraska)

The second map is the precursor to a similarly formatted map of Nebraska and Kansas which began appearing in Colton's atlas circa 1858, but significantly pre-dates the atlas map, with fewer townships and earlier topographical details.

Moffette claims to have been part of the Stevens Expedition. Some of the information in the guidebook was secured from Peter Sarpy, one of the pioneer traders on the Upper Missouri.
