Description:

Detailed chart of the Singapore Strait, surveyed in the late 1860s by J.N. Reed.

The chart covers from Singapore Island to Bulang Archipelago, focusing on the waters just south of Singapore, including extensive sounding details and sailing directions.

An early town plan and topographical detail can be seen around Fort Canning and the Town of Singapore.

This chart represents the first major resurvey of the region after the surveys completed by John Turnbull Thomson.

Detailed Condition:

A number of repaired tears in the lower part of the map and a tear near the top.
