Description:

Rare Spanish Sea chart of the Atlantic Ocean, showing Spain and parts of Ireland, England, France; island chains of the Azores, the Canary Islands and Cape Verde; the northeast coast of America from Newfoundland and Labrador in the north to Florida, the Greater and Lesser Antilles, the Gulf of Mexico, part of Central America and the Equator in South America.

The chart is drawn in the style of a Portolan map. The Province of Texas is noted, as is the Province of West Florida.

This would seem to be the map which in 1825 was copied in connection with a set of maps presented to Guadalupe Victoria, the first President of the Republic of Mexico in 1825.

The chart is of the utmost rarity. We note an example in the Woodbury Lowery collection, but no other examples offered for sale in many decades.

Detailed Condition:

Extra creases and some soiling.
