Description:

Fine example of the Indian Affairs Commissioner's Map of the United States, published in 1891.

1891 is one of the most important years in the history of the evolving story of the lands reserved to Native Americans, most notably the Oklahoma Land Run of 1891.

The present map locates all the lands reserved to Native American Tribes as of 1891. The map was issued periodically with changes over the course of the next 2 decades, tracking the evolution of the US Government's efforts to regulate and control the location of American Indians.
