Description:

Second state of this rare sea chart of the Singapore Straits and environs, published by the Depot de la Marine.

The map is one of several charts prepared in the mid-1840s by Urban Dortet de Tessan, for the Depot de la Marine, utilizing contemporary English and Dutch sources.

The geographical focus of the map covers the southern tip of the Malay peninsula to the coast of Sumatra and from (roughly) Pulau Rangsang to Pauau Mapur (Panjang).

The map covers the recently surveyed maritime routes south of Singapore, via the straits of Durian and Rhio (Riouw), towards the Dutch trading centers in Jakarta and the Pepper Ports of Sumatra.

The map is elegantly engraved, including several profile views for Singapore and additional profiles for Sumatra.

This chart precedes by one year an enlarged version of the chart issued in 1847, which gives a more detailed treatment of the Straits.

A later edition was issued in 1852.
