The Cantelli-Rossi map of Croatia, Bosnia-Herzegovina and Montenegro

Highly detailed map of the Adriatic Coastline, from Montenegro in the south to the coast of central Croatia (Zadar, etc.), and covering a large part of Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Shows administrative divisions, cities, towns, landmarks, churches, forests, rivers and mountains. Includes note, list of ancient and modern names and dedication text "All'Illmo. et Raymo. Sigre. Monaigr. Lorenzo Casoni Secretario della Cifra di N.S. Papa Innocenzo XI ... Gio. Iacomo de Rossi."

Giacomo Cantelli da Vignola (1643 - 1695) was an important Italian cartographer and engraver active in 17th century Modena. Cantelli da Vignola is best known for pioneering the Italian style of fine bold engraving that would eventually be embraced and expanded upon by Vincenzo Coronelli. Vignola based his maps not just on earlier maps, but also upon the accounts prepared by travelers and merchants of journeys to foreign lands.

Marković (Descriptio Croatiae) notes that Cantelli is the most important mapmaker of the Croatian region.
