Description:

Bellin Illustrates The Russian Discoveries In The Pacific Northwest

Fine example of Bellin's map of the Northwest part of America and Northeast part of Asia, from Bellin's Petit Atlas Maritime.

The map illustrates the discoveries made by the Russian explorations in 1734-44 during the Great Northern Expedition led by Vitus Bering, drawn primarily from Gerhard Friedrich Muller's maps of 1754 and 1758, but augmented with some later Russian sources and non-Russian information.

The map includes extensive notes regarding early explorers along the Northwest Coast, including Sir Francis Drake, Admiral Font, Juan de La Fuca, Martin Aguilar and others.

The map also notes the Russian Discoveries in the Arctic from 1648 and the routes of the more contemporary Russian Explorers in the region.

Includes an extensive note on the supposed discoveries of the Spanish Admiral, Bartolomeo de Fuente.
