Description:

Scarce separately published example of Tardieu's large plan of the city of St. Petersburg. The map is highly detailed, showing and labelling numerous neighborhoods, buildings, and more.

Tardieu's plan is based upon a preceding plan, first prepared in 1753 for the Russian Academy of Sciences and Arts under the order of the Empress Elizabeth. This map is a third of the original map's size.

The key at the right of the map lists seventy-nine places of interest within the map.

Detailed Condition:

Dissected and laid on linen, as issued.
