Description:

Antique Map of The Theater of The American Revolution on the Eve of the French Joining the War

Coming the year after the creation of the United States and signing of the Declaration of Independence, this antique map illustrates the British Colonies in North America in 1777, the year before the signing of the treaty of Alliance, which would see the French join the Americans during the American Revolution

The primary map shows the British Colonies in North America, extending just beyond the Appalachian Mountains, as well as the Great Lakes and Canada.

The large inset map provides an excellent treatment of the Mississippi Valley and Tributaries, extending north to Lake Superior and centered on the confluence of the Mississippi River and the Missouri River.

A smaller inset shows most of what was then Georgia and Western Florida, with a smaller inset of Niagara Falls.
