Description:

Finely executed pictorial map / birds eye view of Virginia City, drawn by Robert Lewis Richards and lithographed by the Silver State Press in Reno.

The map is a fine combination of historical vignettes and meticulous recreation of Virginia City during its boom years.

Along the top and bottom are profile views of the major commercial establishments, labeled "The East Side of C Street" and the "West Side of C Street".

Along the sides, important buildings are shown, including the Nevada Brewery, Savage and Chollar Mine Offices and Fourth Ward School.

Rarity

The view is very rare. We locate only the Copyright notice for the map, but no located surviving examples.
