Description:

With Extra Deluxe Dedication To The King

Nice example of Matthaus Seutter's Atlas Novus, with 49 hand colored maps, decorative title page and extra double page dedication.

The extra dedication page is curiously dated by hand as "1717," although the maps suggest a date of 1731 to 1742.

Striking allegorical title page, depicting a crowned female figure sitting on a globe, at her feet are female images of the continents, in exceptional old color. The cartouches of most of the maps are embellished with rich figurative and allegorical images and coats of arms.

Almost all maps with the reference to Seutter's title as Imperial Geographer ("Sac. Caes. Maj. Geogr."), a title he received around 1731-33, but still without the imperial printing privilege that Seutter received around 1740-42. -

As noted in the table of contents, the maps include:

- Celestial Map
