Description:

Edward Luther Stevenson's Facsimile of the Hereford Mappamundi.

Early photographic reproduction of the Edward Stanford chromolithograph facsimile of the Hereford Mappamundi, perhaps the most famous world map from the British Isles.

The well-known map of the world is an altar-piece in Hereford Cathedral, made by or for Richard of Haldingham. The map is shaped in an oval with Jerusalem in the center.

The Stanford chromolithograph of the Hereford map is itself extremely rare and valuable today, with the last copy on the market asking over $20,000.
