Description:

Promoting A Short Lived Puget Sound Ferry Line

Interesting pictorial map and illustrated travel brochure, promoting the Edmonds Olympic Route - Sound Ferry Lines Inc.

The main map image shows a monochromatic view of the Straits of Juan de Fuca and Olympic National Forest area, extending south to Gray's Harbor, Tacoma and Olympia, centered on the Edmonds area, with an array of recreational and scenic images on either side of the map.

The verso includes more promotional information and a time schedule for Weekend Outings in the Olympics, including an image of the Ferry Quillayute.

The Quillayute

Built in 1927 as wooden hull ferry with twin diesel engines for Puget Sound Ferry Lines. In 1928 she was taken over by Puget Sound Navigation Company and ran from Edmonds to Kingston. At the time Washington state took over the line, she was not included in the sale.

The Quillayute went to Canada with Captain Peabody and the Black Ball Ferries and was used on the Horseshoe Bay route. After the Black Ball line was sold to the Canadian Government, the Quillayute was sold to the Nelson Brothers and thereafter used for a fishing camp in Northern Canada.
