Description:

First State of Zaltieri's Map of Bohemia

Rare separately issued 2 sheet map of Bohemia, first published by Zaltieri and later re-issued by Rascicotti.

This rare map is based on the Mikulas Klaudyán (Mikuláš Klaudyán) map of Bohemia from 1518 (more commonly known as the Nicolaus Claudianus map of Bohemia), one of the earliest surviving "modern" maps of a region in Northern Europe. The original Claudianus map survives in one example in Litomerice. The following has been written about this map by Peter Meuer.

In 1518, the Nuremberg printer Hieronymus Höltzel, also an early supporter of the Reformation, produced a political leaflet that included the first map of Bohemia. Its author was the Czech physician and humanist Nicolaus Claudianus (Mikolas Kulha), a member of the Bohemian Brethren.

The topographically rich and accurate map was entirely based on the author's personal knowledge; technical influences of the Etzlaub maps are visible in the orientation to the south. Particular emphasis was given to a detailed differentiation between royal and feudal and between Catholic and Utraquist settlements.

The map may have been prepared for the purpose of showing the distribution and status of Papal and Hussite adherents.

Zaltieri's map is topographically similar to the Claudianus map and the nomenclature is the same, but the typography differs from the original. The title in Italian given at the bottom right is:

A' lettori. Eccovi la Boemia di nuova minutamete descritta co tutte le sue Citta, Castelli et Vile. Ella e come sid vede tutta circondata di Monti et di Selve, et dal fiume Albi nel piu bagnata. La Citta principale en ess e Praga. E' sottoposta all casa d'Austria.

There are two states of the map.

- State 1: Zaltieri imprint
- State 2; Imprint of Donati Rascicoti, 1619 added to "A'lettori section at lower right.
