Description:

Detailed 2 sheet map of the British and Spanish colonies in North America, which appeared in Lattre's Atlas Moderne, published in Paris.

The map extends north to Baffin's Bay and west to Lake Ouinipigon (Winnepeg), the known course of the Missouri River and Texas, providing a nice image of the Great Lakes and the Mississippi Valley on the eve of the American Revolution.

The various lines denote the boundaries of Canada, Mexique (New Spain), the lands of the Hudson's Bay Company and Louisiana. Curiously, no line is shown differentiating Canada from the remaining British Colonies. The boundaries of the British Colonies and East and West Florida are not shown.
