Description:

Rare double hemisphere map of the World by Jeremias Wolff in Augsburg.

The map is very similar to a double hemisphere map by Lotter, however it is rarer.

Wolff was an important Augsburg publisher at the end of the 17th and beginning of the 18th century. His business passed to his son-in-law John Balthasar Probst upon his death, for sometime thereafter Probst published under the name "Heirs of Jeremias Wolff".

Wolff's map is a close copy of Guillaum De L'Isle's Mappe-Monde Dressee Sur les Observations . . . 1700.

Detailed Condition:

Left and right margin extended from neatline.
