Description:

A nice example of Blaeu's modern map of Egypt, in fine old color.

The map shows Egypt oriented with east at the top, centered on the Nile River. Pyramids are illustrated in two locations along the Nile.

The copper plate for this map eventually went to Frederick De Wit, who published the map in the 18th century. After De Wit died, Covens & Mortier bought the plate from Maria De Wit, and they, in turn, also published the map.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand-color.
