Description:

Striking and highly detailed map of China, colored by provinces, published by Seutter in Augsburg, circa 1730.

The map extends from southern China to Korea, which is shown as a peninsula and includes southern Japan and Taiwan.

The elaborate cartouch in the lower-right corner alludes to the maritime trade between China and Europe, as a queen, representing Europe, points to European vessels interacting with Chinese Junks. Other figures from Classical mythology, and two meant to represent Chinese rulers, surround it on the right.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand-color.
