Description:

Two excellent early regional maps of the Salt Lake area. The upper map extends a bit west of the Lake to the Uintas and South to Lake Utah, as well as considerably east of the lake and the Wasatch. Includes a town plan for Salt Lake, roads, other towns, rivers, etc. The lower map focuses on the area around Salt Lake City and includes a nice town grid, plus some other areas south of downtown which are recently laid out, including Welsh settlement and Big Field. The City Mill is shown, as are another Mill, a cave and other fine details. A scarce map, one of the best early maps of the area which is reasonably obtainable by collectors. A bit of soiling, but still a very good example.
