First state of Forlani's separately published map of the area centered on Verona, Lago di Garda and the Adige River in Northeastern Italy.

The map extends from Mantua and the Po River in the south to the area around Trento and the Dolomites.

The map is based upon a manuscript map drawn by the Venetian mapmaker Bernardo Brognolo (also Brognoli or Brugnoli/o). The Brognoli/Forlanis map thereafter served nearly for a century as the cartographic model of the region, used by Ortelius (beginning in 1575) and thereafter by Blaeu and others.

Bifulco notes that some sources attribute the map directly to a map drawn by the Brescia painter
