Description:

Scarce map of the region centered on the Black Sea and Russia, published by Nicolas De Fer in Paris.

The map extends from Scandinavia and the Baltic in the west to the mouth of the Volga in the Caspian Sea.

Elaborate cartouche includes 9 coats of arms.

At the time of the map, the Ottoman Empire still extended the Bosnia, Serbia and the regions south of the Danube.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand-color in outline. Soiling at the edges, where previously covered with an adhesive. At the top, this proceeds just past the neckline. Minor dampstain in the upper-right corner. Small tear in the lower-right corner, repaired with tape on verso.
