Description:

Original, antique map of the French-Belgian border, published at the end of the 17th in Amsterdam by the important mapmaker Frederick De Wit.

Engraved in an expert manner, this decorative map shows the cities of the region including Mons, Charleroi, Maubeuge, and Valenciennes. The course of the Sambre River is shown. Many forests, roads, towns, rivers, and other features throughout the map appear.

The map includes several decorative elements, including a cartouche with a coat of arms in the upper right and a scale bar flanked by cherubs in the center left.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand-color. Toning. Loss to margins. Minor areas of loss in image, repaired on verso. Some closed tears with associated tape stains.
