Description:

The "Falaises blanches de Douvres".

Nice separate Depot de la Marine chart of the Kentish coastline on the English Channel, showing the towns of Douvres (Dover), Deal, Sandwich, Ramsgate, and Margate.

The chart shows offshore hydrographic detail and was published during the Napoleonic Wars.

This map has as its historical context the tense naval contest between Britain and France that lasted for decades, particularly in this short span of water between the two countries.
