Description:

Nice original antique map of the Beauce region of France, situated between the Seine and the Loire Rivers to the west of Paris. The map shows this deeply pastoral part of France in fine detail.

The map shows the cities of Chartres and Estampes. Many smaller towns and villages are shown as well, and forests, hills, and more are shown pictorially. The map pays particularly close attention to hydrography.

This map was published by Nicolas Sanson in Paris in 1652.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand-color in outline. Trimmed to the neatline (somewhat unevenly) and mounted on a larger sheet of contemporary laid paper for inclusion in a composite atlas. Minor centerfold toning. Minor offsetting.
