Description:

Spectacular wall map of Paris, published by M. Pichon in Paris and engraved by Michel Glot.

Rare and beautiful wall map of Paris framed by a floral border with lilies at the corners. The masthead held by angels, features a nymph of the Seine and an allegory of Paris with the symbols of the arts and sciences. Around the plan are 27 Parisian views of places and monuments, and one for the Palace of Versailles.

The map provides a finely engraved look at Paris, dissected by the Seine River, immediately prior to the French Revolution. The tables identify streets, parishes, colleges, hospitals, important buildings, major squares and other points of interest.

- Place de Louis le Grand,
- Nouvelle Eglise de la Madeleine,
- Eglise de St. Sulpice,

Rarity / States of The Map

The map is quite scarce on the market.

The present example is an early state of the plan. We note an edition of 1783 and later editions of 1789, 1792, 1794, 1801 and 1802. The later editions apparently have significant revisions, especially those issued after 1793.

Detailed Condition:

Linen backed. Stored folded. Minor soiling. Evidence of old paper breaks, but overall quite nice.
