Description:

The map presents an intricate depiction of Naples from the second half of the 19th century. The map displays a detailed view of the city's layout, streets, and significant landmarks along with the surrounding landscape, showcasing the urban design and natural geography of the area during that period.

The map is drawn with attention to detail, illustrating the densely packed urban areas along with the distinct features of the surrounding countryside. The coastline is clearly marked, showing the relationship between the city and the adjacent sea, which is an integral part of Naples' identity.

The key at the bottom right of the map, provided in a separate image, lists important locations and points of interest within the city, categorized primarily under religious sites such as churches and parishes. This index aids in navigating the map, allowing viewers to identify specific buildings, streets, and other landmarks.
